History

Canada became a member of the International Ice Hockey Federation on April 26, 1920

1987 saw the first unofficial women's international tournament in North York, Ontario. There were teams from Canada, the United States, Sweden, Holland, Switzerland and Japan. Canada won gold.

1990 history was made in Ottawa as the inaugural IIHF women's world hockey championship took place. The pink-themed event drew big as Canada defeated the United States 5-2 in the gold medal game.

The 1998 Games in Nagano, Japan, the United States claimed the gold by defeating Canada 3-1 in the final, the Nagano Games were a milestone for all female hockey players in their long fight for recognition and respect.

Canada avenged its loss to the United States in Nagano by taking gold at the 2002 Olympic Winter Games in Salt Lake City. 2006 Olympic Winter games in Turin, Italy. In the women's semi-final the Americans were upset by the surprising Swedes 3-2 in a shootout. It was the first time Sweden had advanced to a gold medal game in international women's hockey.

Team Canada brought the ecstatic Swedes back down to earth by defeating them 4-1 in the final, but the point had been made.

The Olympic Winter Games returned to Canada in 2010 and Canada earned Gold with a 2-0 victory of the United States.

Since 1990, Canada's National Women's Team has found unparalleled success on the international stage, including 10 gold medals at the IIHF Ice Hockey Women's World Championship, and four Olympic gold.
